Ballot Constitutional Amendments

November's ballot includes consideration of five constitutional amendments involving the State's redistricting process, environmental issues, voter registration requirements, absentee ballot authorization, and the jurisdiction of New York City's Civil Court. The propositions, as they appear on the ballot, are found below. Additional information for each proposal is available here.

Ballot Propositions (Vote Yes or No)

Proposal 1 (Amending the Apportionment and Redistricting Process)

This proposed constitutional amendment would freeze the number of state senators at 63, amend the process for the counting of the states population, delete certain provisions that violate the United States Constitution, repeal and amend certain requirements for the appointment of the co-executive directors of the redistricting commission and amend the manner of drawing district lines for congressional and state legislative offices. Shall the proposed amendment be approved?

Proposal 2 (Right to Clean Air, Clean Water, and a Healthful Environment)

The proposed amendment to Article 1 of the New York Constitution would establish the right of each person to clean air and water and a healthful environment. Shall the proposed amendment be approved?

Proposal 3 (Eliminating Ten-Day-Advance Voter Registration Requirement)

The proposed amendment would delete the current requirement in Article 2, § 5 that a citizen be registered to vote at least ten days before an election and would allow the Legislature to enact laws permitting a citizen to register to vote less than ten days before the election. Shall the proposed amendment be approved?

Proposal 4 (Authorizing No-Excuse Absentee Ballot Voting)

The proposed amendment would delete from the current provision on absentee ballots the requirement that an absentee voter must be unable to appear at the polls by reason of absence from the county or illness or physical disability. Shall the proposed amendment be approved?

Proposal 5 (Increasing the Jurisdiction of the New York City Civil Court)

The proposed amendment would increase the New York City Civil Court's jurisdiction by allowing it to hear and decide claims for up to $50,000 instead of the current jurisdictional limit of $25,000. Shall the proposed amendment be approved?

Comptroller DiNapoli: Wall Street 2021 Profits Near Record Levels

Wall Street's run of prosperity extended into the first half of 2021 with $31 billion in pre-tax earnings, beating 2020's first half profits of $27.6 billion, even as job losses accelerated in New York City's securities industry, according to State Comptroller Thomas DiNapoli's annual report on Wall Street's performance.

"Wall Street's success during the pandemic has benefited New York's economy and finances during a difficult time. The securities industry's strong profits have helped shore up tax revenues and securities industry workers have been among the first to return to the office," Comptroller DiNapoli said.

According to the Comptroller, securities industry performance is traditionally measured by the pretax profits of the broker/dealer operations of New York Stock Exchange (NYSE) 125 member firms. 2021's first half gains were driven by some of the same factors that boosted profits last year: record low interest rates kept expenses down, strong trading volume, record earnings in subsectors like global equities, and record revenues from underwriting and account supervision fees and investment advisory fees.

Initial third quarter results show continued strength, but the Comptroller cited a risk that the industry's profit growth will slow as interest rates rise and make borrowing more expensive and federal monetary stimulus ebbs.

In 2021, job losses appear to have accelerated with the industry on pace to lose 4,900 jobs. This loss follows an industry decline of nearly 2 percent (or 3,600 jobs) in 2020 to 179,900 jobs, according to the reports. The loss of industry jobs in the city, at a time when profits are soaring, may be attributed to a combination of advances in technology and the relocation of jobs. By contrast, the city's financial plan forecast a 5.1% gain in securities employment in 2021, with the addition of 9,200 jobs.

The average salary (including bonus) for employees of the New York City securities industry in 2020 was $438,450, a 7.8% increase over 2019's $406,854 average salary. The average bonuses paid out to NYC securities industry workers in 2020 grew by 10% to $184,000 and made up 41% of wages.

The securities industry comprised 6.8% of New York state's economy in 2020. And in city fiscal year (FY) 2021, the industry paid $4.7 billion in taxes, most of it (74%) in personal income taxes. It was also the source of 7% of all city tax collections in city FY 2021, as many of the city's other sectors saw major declines due to the COVID-19 pandemic. The industry accounted for 18% of all state tax collections ($14.9 billion) in state fiscal year 2021, which ended March 31, 2021.

Mayor de Blasio Announces Vaccine Mandate for New York City Workforce

City employees to receive $500 incentive for first dose through next week

All City workers, excluding uniformed correction officers, required to have at least one dose by 5pm on October 29th

Mayor Bill de Blasio this week announced a COVID-19 vaccination mandate for all City workers. The new mandate applies to all city workers -- excluding uniformed correction officers -- and includes all NYPD, FDNY, and DSNY employees effective October 29th. Civilian employees of the Department of Correction (DOC) and uniformed members assigned to healthcare settings are also immediately subject to the mandate. Other uniformed members at DOC will be subject to mandate effective December 1st, as the City works to address the ongoing staffing situation at Rikers Island.

Health Commissioner Dr. Dave Chokshi signed a Commissioner's Order to formalize the mandate, which will immediately apply to approximately 160,500 City workers. Seventy-one percent of the workers affected by this mandate have already received at least one vaccine dose.

City employees will receive an extra $500 in their paycheck for receiving their first shot. This benefit will end at 5pm on Friday, October 29th, by which point City employees are required to have proof of at least one dose. Unvaccinated employees will be placed on unpaid leave until they show proof of vaccination to their supervisor.

According to the Mayor, the City began impact bargaining with affected unions immediately.

The Police Benevolent Association and the Detectives Endowment Association indicated that they both plan to fight the mandate.

Bills Passed by the City Council

Int. No. 499-A -- Sponsored by Council Member Karen Koslowitz -- Allowing corporations, partnerships and other business entities to obtain newsstand licenses.

Int. No. 2321-A -- Sponsored by Council Member Robert Cornegy -- Allows all owners of buildings with gas piping systems and gas service to apply for a 180-day extension of the deadline by which they must conduct gas piping system inspections and submit certifications as required by Local Law 152 of 2016.

Int. No. 2373 -- Sponsored by Council Member Rafael Salamanca -- Requires the Department of Health and Mental Hygiene (DOHMH) to waive any fee for applicants requesting to amend a death certificate to list the cause of death as COVID-19 or health complications caused by COVID-19.

Int. 2404-A -- Sponsored by Council Member Brad Lander -- Extends the certification of no harassment (CONH) pilot created by Local Law 1 of 2018 until September 27, 2026. Under the CONH pilot, the following list provides for the types of buildings that would be required to apply for a CONH where certain work is to be performed: buildings discharged from Article 7-A program, unless such building is the subject of a rehabilitation loan; buildings where a full vacate order has been issued, except where such vacate order was issued due to a fire; buildings where there has been active participation in the alternative enforcement program which have been discharged from such program; buildings where a court or DHCR have made a harassment finding; and buildings indicating significant distress as determined by the Building Qualification Index (BQI).

City's Pension Funds Commit to Achieve Net Zero Greenhouse Gas Emissions in Pension Investment Portfolios by 2040

The trustees of three of the City's pension funds –NYCERS, TRS, and BERS -- this week announced these funds have agreed to a commitment to achieve net zero greenhouse gas emissions in their investment portfolios by 2040. This includes a goal to double investments in climate change solutions, such as renewable energy, energy efficiency and green real estate, to over $8 billion by 2025 and achieve a total of over $37 billion in climate solutions investments by 2035 across the three funds.

The goal and plan was proposed jointly by the Mayor Bill de Blasio and Comptroller Scott Stringer and addresses the financial, environmental, and social risks that climate change poses to the funds. In addition, it will further align the funds' investments with the accelerating transition towards a low carbon economy and will help limit global warming to 1.5 degrees Celsius.

The three New York City pension funds have also adopted the Net Zero Asset Owner Commitment of the Paris Aligned Investment Initiative (PAII), joining asset owners and investors globally in developing best practices to achieve net zero emissions.

The New York City Employees' Retirement System (NYCERS) and New York City Teachers' Retirement System (TRS) voted to approve a commitment to achieve net zero emissions by 2040 this week and the New York City Board of Education Retirement System (BERS) is expected to move forward on a vote imminently, according to the Mayor.

This new goal builds upon the funds' recent actions to address the risks and opportunities presented by a global transition to a low carbon economy. In January 2021, the trustees voted to divest their portfolios of an estimated $4 billion in securities of fossil fuel reserve owners. The divestment is expected to be complete within a five-year timeline.

Comptroller DiNapoli: State Tax Receipts Exceed Initial Projections By $7.2 Billion Through First Six Months

State tax receipts in State Fiscal Year (SFY) 2021-22 exceeded the Enacted Budget Financial Plan forecast (May estimates) by $7.2 billion through the end of September, according to the monthly State Cash Report released by New York State Comptroller Thomas DiNapoli.

Tax collections were $1.8 billion greater than forecast by the Division of the Budget (DOB) in the First Quarter Update to the Financial Plan, released last month. Tax receipts through September 30th are $13.4 billion greater than they were through the same month in SFY 2020-21.

Tax receipts through September totaled $52.9 billion, bolstered by collections from the higher tax rates included in the SFY 2021-22 Enacted State Budget. Personal Income Tax (PIT) receipts totaled $35.8 billion and were $8.9 billion greater year-to-date than last year. PIT collections exceeded May estimates by $4.8 billion and the First Quarter Update forecast by $583.2 million.

Year-to-date, consumption and use tax collections totaled $9.8 billion, 27.1%, or $2.1 billion, higher than last year. Business taxes totaled $5.9 billion, $1.9 billion higher than last year.

All Funds spending through September totaled $91.8 billion, which was $4.7 billion, or 5.3%, higher than last year for the same period, primarily due to higher pandemic-related costs including rental assistance and stabilization grants. All Funds spending through September was nearly $5.1 billion lower than DOB's May estimates and nearly $1.5 billion lower than forecast in the First Quarter Update, primarily due to lower than anticipated spending from federal funds.

State Gaming Commission Seeks Proposals for NYC-area Casinos

The state Gaming Commission is seeking proposals to operate three casinos in the New York City region, issuing a "request for expressions of interest" to gauge the market for casinos in the downstate region. Proposals are due December 10th.

The Commission is seeking information "to develop a better understanding of interest in the unawarded commercial casino licenses and, if there is interest, what factors should be considered by the State in the development of a process to award such licenses," according to the Gaming Commission RFI issued Wednesday.

Hudson Yards Infrastructure Corporation Receives Credit Rating Upgrades and Will Sell First Green Bond Issued by a City-Related Entity

Following credit rating upgrades, Hudson Yards Infrastructure Corporation (HYIC) will sell the first green bond issued by a City-related entity, a $450 million green bond sale linked to expansion of the subway system and supports zero-direct emissions, clean transportation.

Last week, Moody's Investors Services (Moody's) upgraded HYIC's credit rating from Aa3 to Aa2, with a stable outlook. S&P Global Ratings raised its long-term rating from A+ to AA-, with a positive outlook. Fitch Ratings upgraded its credit rating on HYIC bonds from A to A+, with a stable outlook.

HYIC is a local development corporation created by the City in 2005 to finance the extension of the Number 7 Subway Line to the 34th Street - Hudson Yards station and the creation of a public park. Proceeds from the $450 million green bond sale will be used to refinance bonds issued in 2012 to fund the subway extension. The subway extension has helped mitigate the impact of climate change by encouraging low-carbon transportation.

Mayor Names Andrew D'Amora as Acting Emergency Management Commissioner

Mayor Bill de Blasio this week appointed Andrew D'Amora as the Acting Commissioner of New York City Emergency Management (NYCEM). Mr. D'Amora previously served as the agency's Chief of Staff for five years and has served as First Deputy Commissioner since 2019.

Christina Farrell, a 27-year NYCEM veteran who has served as the agency's Deputy Commissioner for External Affairs since 2008, will serve as Acting First Deputy Commissioner.

Mr. D'Amora joined the New York City Police Department in 1990 and holds the rank of Deputy Chief. He has served in several commands throughout the five boroughs and holds a Master of Science in Protection Management with a Concentration in Emergency Management from John Jay College and a Bachelor of Science degree in Organizational Management from St. Joseph's College. Mr. D'Amora is also a graduate of the Executive Leaders Program at the Naval Postgraduate School in Monterey, California, and a graduate of the Police Management Institute at Columbia University.

City Comptroller: Work From Home Models Hurt NYC Retailers and Drive Tax Revenues Down

New York City Comptroller Scott Stringer released an analysis of the impact that remote work will have on New York City sales tax revenue. As work from home becomes more routine in the aftermath of the pandemic, City retailers will be impacted by reduced spending by commuters.

Specifically, the Comptroller's report found:

- If the roughly 500,000 office workers who commute into the City return to the office on a three-day a week basis, retail demand would be lowered by $1.6 billion annually with a resulting loss in tax revenue of nearly $146 million.
- This could be partially offset by increased demand from the 110,000 City residents who work outside the City and going forward will spend more time and purchase more in the City. This would be expected to generate new sales of $350 million and sales tax revenue of $35 million.
- For the 3.7 million City residents who both live and work in the City, spending near the office will be largely replaced with spending closer to home.

- Overall, City sales tax revenue is estimated to be reduced by $111 million annually as a result of increased work from home. While the loss in revenue is relatively minor when compared to the $7 billion in sales tax revenue that the City is expected to raise in 2022, the impact will be severely felt by the many small businesses that operate in the commercial districts which will face lower sales.

MTA Announces Senior Appointments

Metropolitan Transportation Authority (MTA) Acting Chair and CEO Janno Lieber announced the following appointments to the Authority's leadership team:

Lisette Camilo will serve as Chief Administrative Officer. Most recently, Ms. Camilo served as Commissioner of New York City's Department of Citywide Administrative Services (DCAS) for the past six years. Commissioner Camilo brings to the MTA a history of public service, beginning at the Mayor's Office of Contract Services (MOCS) in the legal unit in 2011, where she was appointed NYC Chief Procurement Officer in 2014. Prior to MOCS, Commissioner Camilo served as Legislative Counsel at the New York City Council for the Contracts, Juvenile Justice, and General Welfare Committees. She began her legal career as Counsel for UNITE HERE Local 100, which represents hotel, restaurant, and commercial food service workers. The newly created CAO role will oversee the MTA's Procurement, IT, Real Estate, and Human Resources functions across the agency.

Jamie Torres-Springer will serve as President at MTA Construction and Development. Mr. Torres-Springer is Commissioner of New York City's Department of Design and Construction (DDC), where he has served since 2018. Prior to DDC, he led a planning practice working on urban infrastructure, open space, and citywide strategic plans for inclusive growth and sustainability.

Shanifah Rieara will serve as Senior Advisor, Communications and Policy. Ms. Rieara recently served as Deputy Comptroller for Public Affairs at the New York City Comptroller's Office. Previously, she served as Assistant Comptroller and Bureau Chief of Public Affairs in the Comptroller's Office and Northern Manhattan Director in the Manhattan Borough President's Office. Before joining the Manhattan Borough President's Office, Ms. Rieara worked at both Manhattan Community Boards 7 and 9.
